ELECT CLASS PRESIDENT

Students of University College of Med icine Meet To-Day.

To-day the students of the University College of Medicine will meet for the purpose of electing a class president. The contest is full of spirit and the students very much divided. The prominent candidates are Messrs. Spencer, Driver and Brookes, each of whom has many friends who are canvissing with an energy which would do credit to a gubernatorial campaign. Each candidate, with that confidence that is born of politics, asserts that he will certainly be elected.

TALK ON PRIMARY

Well-Known Man Points Out a Possible

Drawback. A well-known gentleman, prominent in the politics of the State and who has been suggested as a probable candidate for the suggested as a probable candidate for the governorship, said yesterday in discussing the Democratic party plan of making nominations that he regarded as the most serious objection to the plan the provision for minority nominations. It would be castly possible, he pointed out, with four or five candidates in the field, for a man receiving less than a third of the vote cast to receive the nomination. This, in his opinion, would inevitably result in dissatisfaction with the result, and men would not feel bound to abide it, as would be the case if the nomine, including would develop into one for the nomination in which rival candidates would meet or, the stump, and in attacking each other's records would arouse antagonisms and prejudices of such a nature that they would not be healed. The gentleman in question expressed these views openly, but when asked for permission to quote him by name he declined to give it.

Asked for a suggestion as to some plan by which minority nominations might be obviated, he suggested the election of delegates to a gubernatorial or senatorial convention by primaries in each city and county, the man receiving the highest vote in each city or county to be entitled to its quotan of delegates. Then when the convention assembled all delegates would also pledged to the choice of their constituents until his name was dropped. By dropping the name of the lowest candidate for three ballots before such person could be again yould for, he thought that a nomination might be reached without delay.

This suggestion is very similar to the Barksdate-accept general primary bill, governorship, said yesterday in discuss-

POSTOFFICE

Burglars Create Confusion in Louisa-A Ruined

> (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) LOUISA, VA., Oct. 23,-The postoffice at this place was broken into some time during last night. The tools used were taken from Joe Reynolds' blacksmith taken from Joe Reynolds' blacksmith shop, the lock being broken to gain entrance, and were found this morning on the postoffice floor, the front door of which had been prized open. A scene of utter confusion confronted the assistant postmaster, Frank Cunningham, when he reached the office at 5:30 this morning to make up the early east bound mail.

The office is kept in a one-story frame building, located in the center of the business section of Main Street, and is far removed from any residences. A watchmaking and jewelry business is carried on by the postmaster's son, Will Cunningham, with somewhere near $1,000 worth of stock. The postmaster himself is an expert gun and locksmith, and when not employed at his home in the county plies his trade in the same room, having on hand usually a large stock of finished and unfinished work. Two fron safes are used jointly by the father of finished and unfinished work. Two fron safes are used jointly by the father and sons, the smaller one for pennies and articles of small value; the larger one for money, stamps, jewelry, regis-tered letters and packages, and contained last night about $300 in stamps, $75 in money, several registered letters and packages, besides a large quantity of money, several registered lotters and packages, besides a large quantity of valuable jewelry. The thleves opened the small safe, the cash drawer at the stamp window, rifled them of the contents, about $2 in pennies, several dollars in greenbacks, some silver coins, and all the stamps left in the drawer overnight. The assistant's open-face gold watch was taken from a nail, where he hung it and forgot to take it home. Papers, books, drawers and boxes were scattered in every direction. The big safe dial knob was broken off, the dial plate hammered and battered, and the handle was twisted off way in beyond the front wall of the door and removed, leaving a convenient hole for the insertion of dynamite or nitro-glycerine, which was evidently the burglars' purpose to use, judging from the plece of fuse, about the floor round the safe. The postmaster was sent for and reached town from his country place about 8 o'clock. He has been engaged all day, without success, in trying to open the big safe and solve the problem as to whether the contents were removed and the safe locked, to baffle pursuit or to find everything secure. He is rather inclined to think it will be necessary for him to complete the unfinished job by blowing the safe in
